AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith recommended today increasing the state sales tax from 3.25 to 4 per cent as the core of a plan to raise $420 million in new state revenue over the next two

The governor also proposed boosting the motor vehicle sales tax from 3 to 4 per cent and a state college tuition in-

Smith made his second appearance this year before the legislature, laying out a new set of recommendations to replace his "spend-now, pay-later" plan which the lawmakers gutted.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes said Smith informed him of the speech about an hour before he delivered it.

"I think we are going to have to have some business taxes," Barnes said of the governor's plan.

NJC Holiday

An estimated 62 members of Navarro Junior College will attend sessions Thursday through Saturday of the 24th annual convention of the Texas Junior College Teachers Association and the Texas Junior College Association.

NJC President Dr. Ben Jones said that there will be no formal classes at the college Friday, in order that as many of the school's faculty as possible might

He also announced that the school's spring enrollment has reached 984, a six per cent increase over the spring, 1970, figure.

"Environmental Awareness" is the theme of the 1971 convention, which will be held at the Dallas Statler Hilton

Dr. Jones said registration is scheduled for 6-9 p.m. on Thursday, and the next day, meetings, tours, commercial exhibits, films and general sessions are planned.

The first general session is planned for 1:30 p.m. Friday, when the speaker will be Dr. Walter Kerr, director of the National Youth Foundation.

Candidate Files

A new candidate has entered the race for the office of City Tax Assessor-Collector in the April 6 city election, City Secretary Nelda Neal announced Thursday.

Charles W. "Jakie" Pugh, 61, 1410 W.
Charles W. 2nd Ave., a lifelong resident of Corsicana filed Wednesday at 1 p.m. with Mrs. Neal for a place on the ballot. Pugh is a parts salesman for F. C. Stewart Motor

His entry brings to three the number of candidates announcing for the city tax office.

Voters will elect a mayor, two city commissioners, city tax officer and city attorney in the April 6 elections. "Odd year" municipal elections are called the "big elections" in that five offices are filled whereas in even years, only two city commission places are filled.

and Main. Leland Kattner, owner, said the new store has 6,650 square feet of floor space. Kattner came to Corsicana in 1953. He operated an Western Auto outlet on North Beaton for six years, then relocated to 207 S. Beaton. Kattner said the new location offers ample free parking and features a complete line of Wizard, Truetone, Philco and Norge appliances. The service department, he said, is equipped to handle all services, including refrigeration, television and tires.

Kattner and his wife have two sons, Max, a sophomore at the University of Texas at Austin, and Steve, a senior at Corsicana High School.

NJC Board Meets

Board of trustees of Navarro Junior College met in regular session this week and approved the minutes, financial statements and payment of bills.

Dr. Ben W. Jones, president, said trustees accepted the 1970 audit of the college as prepared by Philip W. DeFranco, C.P.A. They also heard reports on the recent meeting of the Association of Junior College Board Members and Administrators in Austin.

Dr. Jones reported on legislation affecting the college, such as the proposed appropriation bills and the tuition bill increasing the out-of-state and foreign student tuition.

A Corsicana Eyeing Passenger Route

By JIM KENDALL Staff Writer

Corsicana and the "Golden Circle" area of Central Texas may come out winners in a bitter battle that has erupted over the question of Chicago-to-Houston routes for the proposed "Railpax" passenger service for this

Two routes from Chicago to Houston are under consideration—over the Santa Fe line by way of Kansas City and Fort Worth, or the Missouri Pacific route by way of St. Louis and Texarkana.

Depending on which choice is made, the long-unused passenger depot of the Southern Pacific and Cotton Belt lines could be re-opened for business in Corsicana which would result in obvious boost in employment and a general upgrading of rail service to the entire Central Texas area.

W. H. Ford, joint agent of the Southern Pacific and Cotton Belt lines, has been watching developments in the matter closely.

He said Corsicana residents must wait and see. They have several choices, at least two of which would mean return of passenger service here.

Railpax is intended, said Ford, to provide a guaranteed minimum rail service nationwide, with at least one train a day between 16 pairs of endcities. Dallas is not among the cities, nor is Corsicana.

Ford can remember when as many as seven passenger trains went through Corsicana for such points as Houston.

Nadine.

He is also familiar with the Railpax plan which, if adopted by Congress, will mean a virtual bypass of Dallas — and this giant city to the North is not taking the matter lightly.

Dallas newspapers, said Ford, have continually fought for a Railpax route through Dallas and Corsicana and on to Houston. He says that along this route the largest number of passengers would be served.

So loud has become the clamor from atop Dallas skyscrapers that the National Association of Railroad Passengers has revised its Railpax recommendation to include restoration of direct rail passenger service through Dallas on a north-south route.

Such a route would mean new life for Corsicana's long-abandoned passenger terminal at 318 S. Beaton.

In its earlier requests, said Ford, the user organization had recommended a route from Chicago to Houston passing through Texarkana, giving Fort Worth-Dallas only a connecting link Texarkana.

Railpax conception was introduced in 1966 as a means by which the U.S. government could augment rail passenger service to major cities and reduce the growing number of automobiles on the road and airplanes in the sky.

The National Railroad Passenger Corp. will select routes and intermediate points within the basic system outlined by Secretary John Volpe for Railpax, a new nationwide network.

The corporation, said Ford, is set up under last year's Rail Passenger Service Act, and will run the intercity trains under contract with the railroads, aided by government financing.

NARP told the corporation recently it is modifying its request because of objections from the Dallas area and such metropolitan centers as Tulsa — with a population in excess of 500,000 persons.

"This is all well and good," said Ford. "If we can convince them (the NARP) that a direct line from Dallas to Houston should go through Corsicana, then we can reopen this dirty old passenger

Golden Circle Gains Population

By JIM KENDALL Staff Writer

Some 28 cities and towns within the "Golden Circle of Central Texas" registered population gains for the 1960-70 period.

At the same time, total population of all six counties

See Related Story, Page 5B

located within the Golden Circle also increased substantially. All figures were taken from a report which will be made public within a few weeks. It is the first such report to give complete population information on all Texas cities and towns, the populations of larger cities and counties within metropolitan areas having been released several weeks ago.

Combined population for the six counties is now 139,367. The 1970 count is 4,997 above the same

By county, here is a list of those cities and towns that increased in population, including the percentage of increase over the 1960 official census.

Ellis County: Bardwell City, 277 persons, up 25.9 per cent; Ennis, 11,046, up 34.7 per cent; Garrett, 225, up 34.7 per cent; Ferris, 2,155, up 19.3 per cent; Italy, 1,309, up 10.7 per cent; Milford, 664, up 12.5 per

And, Maypearl, 462, up 28.7 per cent; Midlothian, 2,322, up 52.7 per cent; Red Oak, 767, up 84.8 per cent; Sonoma, 678 a gain of 34.8 per cent; and Waxahachie, 13,452, up 5.5 per cent.

Freestone County: Fairfield, 2,073, up 1.6 per cent, and Teague City, 2,867, a gain of 5.1 per cent.

Henderson County:

Athens, 9,582, up 35.2 per cent; Eustace, 491, up 39.9 per cent; Malakoff, 2,045, up 23.4 per cent; and Trinidad, 1,079, up 37.3 per

Hill County:

Blum, 382, up 21.3 per cent; Abbott, 375, up 29.8 per cent; Mertens, 109, up 4.8 per cent; Itasca, 1,483, a gain of 7.2 per cent; Malone, 305, up 27.1 per cent; and Whitney, 1,371, up 30.6 per cent.

Limestone County: Kosse, 471, up 33.1 per cent. Navarro County:

Blooming Grove, up 2.1 per cent to 740 persons; Frost, up 7.9 per cent to 548; and Richland, up 7.7 per cent to 309.

The new census figures indicate that four of the six counties lost population during the decade. They are Navarro, Freestone, Limestone and Hill. Two counties—Ellis and Henderson, increased in population—both being located nearer to the Fort Worth-Dallas metropolitan complex.

Although figures for each of the state's largest counties were released last week, the current report is the first to list detailed information for each of the state's 254 counties.

Official census for the six counties included within the Golden Circle is:

Navarro, 31,150, down 9.5 per cent; Freestone, 12,525 down 11.2 per cent; Ellis, 46,630, up 7.5 per cent; Henderson, 26,466, up 21.5 per cent; Limestone, 22,596, down 4.5 per cent; and Hill, 22,596, down 4.5 per cent.

Cities within the Golden Circle which registered decreases in population included Corsicana, 19,972, down 1.8 per cent;

Emhouse, 158, down 7.1 per cent; Purdon, 133, down 11.9 per cent; Dawson, 848, down 6.9 per cent.

Also, Rice, 938, down 3.7 per cent; Kerens, 973, down 13.4 per cent; and Barry City, 149, down 16.3 per cent.

Powell had a 1970 population of 121 persons, although no 1960 comparison figures were made available. The same is true of Retreat, which had a 1970 count of 263 persons.

Other area cities and towns which had population loses included Wortham, 1,036, down 4.7 per cent; Streetman, 286, down 6.2 per cent; Hillsboro, 7,224. down 2.4 per cent; and Mexia, 5,943, down 2.9 per cent.

Corsicana's decrease of less than 2 per cent was among the smallest population decline, percentage-wise, of any of the reporting cities and towns in the Corsicana trade area.

There is always the disposition, as we consider religious of God before you." problems, to put too much emphasis on conformity. If we believe certain things, attend church regularly and support the church we are accustomed to believe that we are Christians in the best sense of the term. This lesson on knowing and doing God's will points out the necessity of translating our Christian faith into a type of life on which Jesus put his stamp of approval. "Not everyone who says to me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven but he that doeth the will of my father which is in heaven" (Matthew 7:21).

Sunday Religion

One of the sub-topics asks the question: "Are good intentions enough?" The answer is of course, a decided negative. We can have a type of Christian faith known as "Sunday religion." We can also have a type of religion known as "sanctuary religion." The whole of the Bible makes plain the message that God and his divine will are to be placed first and kept first in the life of every true believer. Many people claim that the Church is full of hypocrites. Anyone who has had any experience in church work knows that this is not true. The Church is full of honest, sincere, aspiring people who frequently stumble and fall but who after every fall get to their feet and keep on trying to live according to what they believe to be God's moral requirements. Jesus was not a rebel, opposing certain beliefs or practices in the Jewish church. He appears to have been an orthodox believer himself, but he was against the church leaders because their religion had become almost wholly external. The Pharisees considered themselves deeply religious. They were in fact religious, but not deeply so. They prayed to be seen of men. They enjoyed being referred to as ing and faithful. They went through the motions of religion with regularity and zeal but there was very little true religious zeal in the lives they lived and the influence they exerted. Steadfast

Throughout his ministry Jesus loved to use the figure of strong foundations. He declared that the life of a genuinely religious man must be built upon a rock so that when the rain descends and the floods come and the winds blow and beat upon that house it will not fall because it is founded upon a rock. But those who were superficial in their religion were like the people who built their houses upon sand and when the rain descended and the floods came and the winds blew and beat upon such a house it fell, and "great was the fall of

Good Company And Bad

One of the things which most bitterly annoyed the opponents of Jesus was the fact that he insisted in going about with the wrong kind of people. The publicans (tax collectors) were a bad lot who treated the people cruelly. The harlots were outcasts in a society that prided itself on its decency. Jesus sought out the publicans and became so free with them that a certain publican named Matthew (or Levi) became one of his twelve disciples. He sought the friendship of a certain Zaccheus, also a publican, with the result that Zaccheus became an honest man and a useful citizen. Jesus always insisted that knowing God's will is important, but not sufficient. Unless we act on the basis of our knowledge we are not pleasing to the Lord whom we profess to follow.

Jesus denounced the scribes and Pharisees, calling them blind guides and hypocrites. "Ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte," he declared, "and when he is made, ye make him twofold more the child of hell than yourselves" (Matthew 23:15). Jesus urged his contemporaries to strive to know the will of God by reading the Bible, praying sincerely and giving allegiance to the church. God appears to be pleased not with what we achieve spiritually but with what we try to achieve. We are always to remember the declaration that "faith without works is dead" (James 2:17).

Sun Sports Editor Nominated By Coaches for State Honors

Dick Gibbs, sports editor of the Corsicana Daily Sun, has been nominated as Texas Sports Writer of the Year by the high school coaches of this region, according to Don Barton, region director and head coach at Tyler Lee High School.

Region Six of the Texas High School Coaches Assn. includes 30 counties. The high school coaches of this are voted to nominate Gibbs as the best sportswriter in this area. There are eight regions in the state and each region has nominated one sportswriter for the coveted title of Sports Writer of the Year in Texas.

The board of directors will select the winner and announce their decision at the annual coaching school in August.

"The coaches in our region," said Barton, "feel the Daily Sun does an exceptional job of covering not only Corsicana sports, but, also, area schools and sporting events."

"We're very proud of Dick Gibbs," said Tucker Sutherland, publisher of the Daily Sun. "We know how hard he works to give our readers complete and exciting sports coverage. We're very gald the coaches have recognized him for this great effort."

Gibbs has been sports editor of the Daily Sun for almost three years. He came to Corsicana from the Athens

He has served the last two years as chairman of the Class 3A Selection Committee of the Texas Sports Writer's Assn. to select all-state basketball
